

Science Week 21 Homework

The Little Potato Chip's Big Adventure

I am a little potato chip,
I go right down you, bit by bit,
In your mouth, I start my journey,
Chew chew chew, I'm no longer burly,
Down the gullet, here I go!
It's quite a long way down, you know.
In to the stomach, here I am!
Broken down, down, down with your afternoon ham.
There was a very acidic mixture, hydrochloric for that matter
Luckily, it was neutralised, though it didn't make me any fatter!
By the way, I heard rumbles from your liver,
Quite a sound, it makes me quiver.
I heard that it produces bile,
Saw some in your stomach, feels quite vile.
I venture through your intestines, big and small,
The name is rather deceiving; not small at all!
Done, done and done! I see your rectum!
Finally, I'm out! Through your bottom!

CHOMP!
